

Turn Blue Jeans GREEN with the Expo Denim Drive!

Help us divert waste from our landfills by reusing your old and worn-out jeans. Round up your old bellbottoms, overalls, skinny jeans, jean jackets, worn out and out sized jeans, then bring them to the 2011 Live Green Expo.

We will collect gently-used denim on Saturday, April 16. The jeans and jean clothing will be repurposed to make eco-friendly insulation for homes. Just look for the collection signs and drop off your contribution to Goodwill of Dallas.

Your jeans will keep future homes and businesses cool in the summer and warm in the winter, plus save energy usage and costs.

NEW FEATURE

Become a City Farmer!

How can people garden in the city?

Is it possible to have my own chicken coop in an urban setting?

What are biodigesters?

At the 2011 Live Green Expo, attendees will learn more about urban gardening from local experts. Everyone should have their own square-foot garden, no matter where they live!

DIY ROOM

Would you like to make your home energy efficient?

Want to be more "green" when you clean?

Experts and volunteers in the DIY Room will show you some small, but effective changes you can make around your home to make it more self-sustaining, and you'll learn how to create homemade eco-friendly cleaners.

WORKSHOPS

Want to start composting to enrich your soil and reduce your waste?

Attend our backyard composting workshop at the 2011 Live Green Expo and learn more about bio-digesters, compost bins and indoor worm bins. A quick lesson about composting will keep your plants healthy and thriving year round. Last year 150 free compost bins were distributed and 84 attendees received a free worm bin or biodigester. Receive FREE composting supplies (while supplies last) for attending this workshop!

Want to Save Money on Your Water Bill?

Join water experts at the Rain Barrel-Making Workshop to learn how you can conserve and reuse the water in your home.

There is always something new and interesting to learn at the
